

Report of the Subcommittee on Public Safety

(Senate Bill 800, As Introduced)

Senate Finance Committee
Virginia General Assembly

February 7, 1999

REPORT OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE ON PUBLIC SAFETY
On Senate Bill 800, As Introduced
(February 7, 1999)

Mr. Chairmen and Members of the Committee:

Your subcommittee has reviewed the provisions of Senate Bill 800, the budget bill as introduced, with respect to the Office of Public Safety. Except for those items as noted in the attached spreadsheet and language amendments, we recommend acceptance of the Governor's recommendations.

In particular, we are pleased to support full funding of the House Bill 599 program for aid to localities with police departments. We recognize additional work may be necessary next year to adjust the distribution formula, based on the work of the Commission on the Condition and Future of Virginia's Cities.

As all of you know, the rate of violent crime has declined in recent years, and the growth in the population of our adult and juvenile correctional facilities has slowed. This is welcome news. Accordingly, there are fewer needs for additional spending in this field than we expected just a few years ago.

Virginia was the only state last year in which violent crime and the adult prison population both declined. This speaks well of our efforts to address the problems of crime and corrections.

Our criminal sentencing guidelines, which were adopted as part of the abolition of parole in 1994, are also recognized at the national level. In Virginia, if you are convicted of a violent offense -- and especially if you are a repeat offender -- you can expect to spend more time behind bars than in any other state in the nation.

Virginia has also been recognized in the field of community corrections -- providing alternatives to incarceration for first-time, non-violent offenders. We are also moving forward with efforts to screen, assess, and provide treatment for drug offenders.

One of the subcommittee's objectives for the coming year is to review the evaluation studies which have been conducted at the state and national level, to gain a better understanding of what works (and doesn't work) in fighting crime and reducing recidivism.

However, recognizing the progress we have already made, the adjustments in the budget this year are relatively minor.

For example, we recommend sufficient general funds for the Department of Corrections to replace its computer network next year using the master equipment lease program.

In the field of juvenile corrections, we recommend a budget adjustment to insure better utilization of private provider beds, with the intent that our state facilities should not have to operate above capacity when space is available in alternative facilities. We also propose that new federal block grant funds be used to renovate Hanover Juvenile Correctional Center, as well as purchase Natural Bridge Juvenile Correctional Center.

In the field of communications technology, we face a significant challenge. We support the initiative for the Department of State Police to develop a request for proposals for a statewide-shared land mobile radio system serving 11 agencies, which we will have to finance beginning next year. As we move forward with this project, we must also be assured that localities have the capacity to provide emergency 911 services, and that our substantial investments in communications technology at the state level are coordinated with these local efforts.

Mr. Chairmen, this concludes the report of the subcommittee.
